

TURNAROUND

Information for parents/carers on Barnet Youth Justice Service Turnaround Programme

Turnaround is a new early intervention project for young people who have been arrested, to offer support across lots of areas of their life and help them to achieve positive change

The programme can help connect them with activities or people who can help

Caring for people, our places and the planet

TURNAROUND

The aim is to prevent young people (10-17 years) becoming involved in crime or anti-social behaviour by offering support to young people and their families

Things a Turnaround Engagement worker can help with:

- Help to feel safe in the local community
- Education, employment and apprenticeships
- Taking part in positive activities such as sports and music
- Worries about drugs or alcohol
- Relationship difficulties
- Knowing your rights
- Worries or concerns around health and wellbeing

Children aged 10-17 at the time of referral who are eligible for Turnaround must fit one or more of the following criteria:

Interviewed under caution following arrest or subject to a criminal investigation attending a voluntary interview under caution

Those who are subject to No Further Action (NFA) decisions

Following arrest or voluntary interview (including outcome 22)

Those who are subject to a Community Resolution (Outcome 8)

Those receiving a first-time youth caution

Released under investigation (RUI) or those subject to pre-charge bail (PCB)

Those discharged by a court

Those acquitted at court; and/or

Those fined by a court

What happens next?

The Turnaround Engagement worker will arrange a time to meet with your young person

They will complete an assessment by finding out more about them and what they may need

They will make a plan with you and your young person as to what needs to happen

They will support you and your young person to make this happen and review progress
